Participatory Community WASH Mapping and Action Planning: Guidelines

Description / Abstract

In 2014, the Community Empowerment and Development Team (CEDT) partnered with Water Aid Cambodia to assist communities to build their capacity and to explore ways to address WASH issues through the Participatory Community WASH Mapping and Action Planning project. In past experiences, many assessments have been conducted of the situation in informal settlements in Cambodia, by a range of different organizations. Most of these assessments partially cover WASH, however none have provided a clear and comprehensive picture of the WASH situation in these settlements. For example, some assessments use technical terminology relating to WASH incorrectly, and other assessments ask only a few questions providing an incomplete picture. This project would provide an opportunity to gain a deeper understanding of the situation in these communities.
